

Attorney Robert Fuggi leads his client, Assemblyman Daniel Van Pelt, as they leave federal court in Newark. Mr. Van Pelt, accused of accepting a bribe, was arrested as part of a major corruption and international money-laundering conspiracy probe. Solomon Dwek (opposite page) leaves the Federal Courthouse in Newark after posting bail. Dwek's work for the government as a cooperating witness directly led to the arrests of 44 people.